

THE LEON & ROSE ZITNER PRIZE

• Annual Deadline is April 15th
• Decisions announced by June 15th
• 2022 Prize amount: $5,000

Award Description

A prize for outstanding contributions to citizen knowledge and community engagement in the area of health, broadly defined, including yet not limited to: personal, collective, social, structural, environmental, clinical, spiritual, biopsychosocial, cultural, and political dimensions of well-being.

Dalhousie students are invited to nominate themselves for this award by presenting evidence of theoretical, practical, or service-oriented work that demonstrates the following qualities:

1. Critical thinking
2. Engagement with a health-related issue, with an emphasis on equity deserving populations or personal experience
3. Challenge to the boundaries of conventional knowledge
4. Advocacy, support, and/or allyship

Eligibility Requirements

Applicants must be enrolled in undergraduate or graduate studies, including professional programs, within one of the following Faculties at Dalhousie University: Faculty of Medicine, Faculty of Health, Faculty of Dentistry, or Faculty of Arts & Social Sciences.

How to Apply

Submit the following information in a Microsoft Word or PDF:

1) Student details

Name, Faculty, Contact Information (Phone Number and Email)

2) Type of work being submitted

(E.g. Research Thesis, Vlog, Outreach Project, etc).

3) A statement that describes how the theoretical, practical, or service-oriented work reflects the criteria identified above. Maximum 750 Words.

4) A description of the work/artifact/item that reflects the prize. Maximum 15 pages. Examples include, but are not limited to, academic paper or essay; community-based project; research project; social media campaign; recording of a theatre or musical production; series of blogs or vlogs; website. Include a copy of the work or a link to the work (e.g. link to the website; the publication; the video) if it is not already included in the description.

Send completed submission to HPI@dal.ca by midnight April 15, 2022 and include "Leon & Rose Zitner Prize Application" in the subject line.

Faculty of Arts and Social Science

Faculty of Dentistry

Faculty of Health

Faculty of Medicine